In Bloom CBP1001

The In Bloom series are curriculum-based chapter books that ease younger readers into reading. Each book uses decodable text, a repetition of sight words and vowel sounds to raise recognition and confidence. Original illustrations help guide readers through the text. Cecilia Minden, Ph.D., a literacy consultant and former director of the Language and Literacy program at Harvard Graduate School of Education, created the text and format. Books include author biography, phonetics and teaching guides.

New Series! Important United States Moments CBT1326

There are many events in the history of the United States that made an impact. Everything changed after April 30, 1803, when France agreed to sell the vast Louisiana Territory to the U.S. for a bargain price. The size of the country instantly doubled and America's frontier expanded westward. Everything changed after March 6, 1836, when a small force of brave Texans fought more than 1,000 Mexican soldiers. It led to independence for Texas and expansion for the U.S. Americans remember the Alamo as a symbol of fierce determination and the struggle for freedom. Everything changed after April 12, 1861, when the first shots were fired at Fort Sumter. North and South fought in bloody battles to decide whether slavery would continue in America. At great cost to the country, President Abraham Lincoln worked to hold the Union together. Everything changed after December 7, 1941, when Japanese fighter planes launched a surprise assault on American battleships and planes stationed at the naval base in Hawaii. The tragic day marked the end of America's debate about whether to fight in World War II. Everything changed after July 20, 1969, when Apollo 11 touched down on the moon's surface and allowed people to set foot where no one had ever been before. On this exciting day, American astronauts won the Space Race and inspired future space explorers. Everything changed after September 11, 2001, when terrorists hijacked airplanes and crashed them into important buildings in the United States. Thousands of Americans died. The tragic day brought the country together and made people promise, "We will never forget." How did the United States change after these key events in US history?

New Series! Project Logic ENS1768

Critical thinking is often included in science, social studies and language arts curricula. Evaluating sources for confirmation bias and accuracy as well as understanding the scientific method are just a few examples of ways students encounter critical thinking. However, using the logic that's part of these critical thinking exercises is important in everyday life too! This set encourages students to be creative, get their facts right, prove their points and test their ideas. Each volume includes relatable examples of how to use each principle in their daily life, such as at school or with family members, as well as questions to consider.

D.A.T.A Set FTG1655

Danger! Action! Trouble! Adventure! Introducing The DATA Set, a brand-new chapter book series for young readers.

What would happen if your next-door neighbor were a mad scientist?

Gabe, Laura and Cesar live on a quiet cul-de-sac. They are the whiz kids of Newtonburg Elementary and each specializes in their own subject. In fact, everyone in town lovingly refers to them as the Data Set. However, their quiet days of learning take a sudden turn for the exciting when they meet Dr. Gustav Bunsen—a mad scientist who throws the kids into a wild spiral of adventures. With easy-to-read language and illustrations on almost every page, The DATA Set chapter books are perfect for beginning readers!

New Series! Dave the Unicorn FTG2053

Welcome to Unicorn School, where you get your own unicorn best friend! You go on magical quests together! There is glitter! There is even more glitter!

Mira goes to unicorn school only to find herself paired with a very un-unicorn-y unicorn: Dave. Dave loves doughnuts. He doesn't follow directions very well. And he farts. A lot.

But Dave is unlike his fellow unicorns in another way: He's a little smarter than they are. And he has a few tricks up his sleeve to show Mira—and all of us—that friendship is more important than sparkles and prancing.

This slyly funny series is full of adorable art and warm messages about accepting life as it comes, even if you were hoping for a pet dragon and got something a lot more like a very loyal guinea pig.

New Series! Iggy FTG2087

The Iggy series about a lovable troublemaker named Iggy.

From Iggy's point of view, his plans are genius, pure genius. But are they? It all depends on your point of view.

He's not a bad kid, he's really not. Okay, so he's done a few (a few is anything up to 100) bad things. And okay, he's not very sorry about most of them. People make a big deal about nothing.

Grownups are always changing the rules!

Grownups make no sense at all.

What did he do, you ask? It's really hard to explain. You'd better read the book.

Noodle Heads FTG2030

Mac and Mac, who love pie and hate making their beds, are hollow-headed. "See in here? Nothing! Zippo! Nada!" Mac explains. That's why they're so easy to fool—and their clever friend Meatball isn't afraid to take advantage of that fact. Illustrated by Tedd Arnold, whose Fly Guy series is a kid favorite, this graphic novel is perfect for comic fans and reluctant readers, with short, funny chapters following Mac and Mac through ridiculous adventures. Full of wordplay, jokes and slapstick humor, the Noodlehead series is sure to delight.

This easy-to-read series, including the Geisel Honor book Noodleheads See the Future, is an accessible introduction to stories of fools and a great next read for fans of the Fly Guy books.

"Fans of this pair's adventures will welcome this latest addition with giggles galore. Savvy educators and caregivers will use this as an introduction to discuss idioms and the importance of not being a noodlehead in real life!" —Kirkus Reviews

New Series! Tuesday at the Castle FTG2058

Tuesdays at Castle Glower are Princess Celie's favorite days. That's because on Tuesdays, the Castle adds a new room, a turret or sometimes even an entire wing. No one ever knows what the Castle will do next and no one--other than Celie, that is--takes the time to map out the new additions.

New rooms, secret knowledge, magical animals, unknown lands, dangerous wizards and a magical Ship--there is never a dull moment in Castle Glower. Each book brings new adventures as Celie and her family explore the Castle and learn more about its history and magic than they ever knew possible.

New Series! Creature Features: Classify Animals! GS2236

Identifying animals can be a tough skill for young students to master. Some animals, like amphibians and reptiles, can look similar even though they are very different. Learning what makes each animal different is an important scientific building block. Through these achievable books, readers learn how to tell the difference between a bird, a fish, a reptile and more. Each book features one animal family and calls out important identifiers for readers to look for. Through full-color photographs of each animal, readers get an up-close look at animals they may see in their everyday life and beyond.

New Series! More Than Meets the Eye KHP1127

We are all more than meets the eye and that is especially true for people who live with ADHD and autism. These differences are not always easily seen, but they affect how an individual goes through life. Learning more about the science behind attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder and autism spectrum disorder, as well as the ways individuals with these disorders are able to live full, successful lives, helps both young people dealing with these disorders themselves and those who want to understand what a family member or friend is going through. These informative volumes, therefore, not only increase knowledge, but also empathy.

What's the Issue? KHP1026

Young people hear many terms they might not understand as they watch the news with their family, see headlines in newspapers or online or listen to a discussion between adults. Words and phrases such as “refugees,” “gender equality,” “racism,” and “climate change” may be unfamiliar to them, but they are critical concepts to understand as they grow up in the modern world. As readers explore these important issues, they strengthen their critical thinking skills with the help of informative text, fact boxes and graphic organizers. Detailed photographs are also included to help readers visualize each topic.

Features include: Age-appropriate text and tone allow readers to familiarize themselves with hot button social and political issues using language they understand. Fact-based approach encourages readers to develop their own informed opinions and understand the importance of objective truth over media spin and personal bias. Focus on social justice topics helps readers develop a sense of empathy for and understanding of people who are different from them.

New Series! Scientific American Investigates Life Cycles RSN1523

Many species of cuckoo lay their eggs in the nests of other birds. After the young cuckoo hatches, it may eject the other babies from the nest so it can thrive. Some kinds of cicadas can live for 17 years—one of the longest insect life spans on Earth! In this set presented by Scientific American, readers learn amazingly odd life cycle facts like these, plus much more about the cicada, cuckoo bird, mayfly, octopus, salmon and kangaroo. Full-color photographs correlate closely to the achievable text, aiding readers' comprehension.

New Series! Scientific American Investigates Spiders RSN1524

A chill may run down your spine when you see one, but spiders are a fascinating and complex animal—and they're great for the environment, too! In this set, the lifestyles of six intriguing types of spiders are made engaging and accessible for readers. From venomous black widows to webless giant huntsman spiders, this set offers readers a variety of cool spiders to learn more about and look at exciting photographs of. Some are as small as a child's thumb and others are big enough to eat birds, but each spider is equally interesting and unique to their respective ecosystems.

New Series! Understanding Me SKM1028

In this big, busy world, how do you understand you? Learn in both English and Spanish how to know what you are thinking and feeling. Author-illustrator Jeffrey Turner has worked with many autistic and special-needs children and has seen that these children often need help in identifying what they are feeling, as they don't always have the words to do so. He has also raised a child with special needs who wanted to understand what he was feeling, imagined or real and why. Turner used his experiences to create these books in hopes that they would be a tool for all young children to understand themselves.

They spend more time climbing trees, tracking animals and taking on three-hundred-pound anacondas than they do filling out worksheets or taking tests. Join these wild siblings as they unravel mysteries, navigate wilderness and work to save wild creatures one species at a time. "A fun, fast-paced thrill ride," says Kirkus Reviews.

New Series! Living in America CED1250

The United States of America is a complex nation. At various times in its nearly 250-year history, the country's citizens have endured racism, poverty and gun violence. They've been split apart and brought together by politics, news media and ideas about what constitutes a basic human right. In this nonfiction series, early high schoolers will learn the history behind many social studies hot topics, including immigration, voting rights and LGBTQ+ discrimination; how and why we continue to struggle today; and what's being done to improve those challenging aspects of living in America. Each title includes real-life profiles of people who are living the featured topic, factual sidebars, a glossary and an index.

Michael Vey FTG1508

Ninth grade can be brutal, especially if you are an undersized boy dealing with Tourette's syndrome. Add bullies, disingenuous authority figures, a geeky best friend, a loving but financially strapped parent and you have a relatable protagonist who just happens to have an amazing superpower. Michael Vey can zap people with electricity. With his mother's help, he has been able to keep his "mutation" a secret until the eventful day when popular cheerleader, Taylor, witnesses him defending himself against three tormentors. This event sets into action a chain of discoveries, deceit and destruction that brings together an unlikely group of young people who must work together to save themselves and others.

"Highly recommended. Michael Vey is thrilling storytelling full of twists, action, intrigue, and outstanding characters. I wouldn't be surprised if Michael Vey sweeps the world." —James Dashner, New York Times bestselling author of the Maze Runner series

New Series! The Forgotten Five FTG2084

Five kids with superpowers. One adventure like no other.

Fifteen years ago, eight supernatural criminals fled Estero City to make a new life in an isolated tropical hideout. Over time, seven of them disappeared without a trace, presumed captured or killed. And now, the remaining one has died.

One map changes everything!

The five have lived their entire lives in isolation. What would it mean to follow the map to a strange world full of things they've only heard about, like cell phones, cars and electricity? A world where, thanks to their parents, being supernatural is a crime?

New Series! Cannabis Today MAS1455

In the past decade, the use of cannabis has been legalized or decriminalized in some countries and US states as a result of changing perceptions regarding recreational cannabis and discoveries that have identified the mental and physical health benefits of the drug. In fact, more than 40 states have legalized medical marijuana in some form and recreational marijuana use is legal throughout Canada and in more than 20 US states; Washington, DC; and Guam. In other places, possession and use of cannabis is still a serious crime. Cannabis Today provides a fact-based examination of the issues associated with marijuana. The series will help students obtain a deeper understanding of cannabis—including its chemical components, production and distribution methods, the ever-growing range of cannabis-based products and the wide range of opinions regarding both recreational and medical use. It also examines the negative physical and mental effects of cannabis abuse or misuse and treatment options for those who have become dependent on the drug.

New Series! Sports & STEAM MAS1461

Whether it's a high school or college team, an individual athlete pursuing their career best or a professional sports team competing for a championship, sports captivate people of all ages. But many don't stop to think about the roles that STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Math) plays in the sporting world. Engineers, scientists, technicians, inventors and other STEM professionals design and build stadiums, wearable technology, protective gear and other things. Others collect and analyze massive amounts of data—to help individual athletes and teams obtain a competitive edge and improve the fan experience. The arts are deeply integrated into the world of sports as tools and as a source of creative inspiration for STEAM professionals, as well as forms of expression by sports artists. Each volume in the Sports & STEAM series spotlights a different STEAM field and details how it plays a major role in the sports world. Discussions of emerging technologies—such as artificial intelligence, augmented and virtual reality, the Internet of Things, 3D printing and advanced robotics—demonstrate how these technologies are being used to help athletes and teams, as well as help fans to better enjoy the game.

New Series! Understanding Cancer MAS1463

Cancer is a leading cause of death worldwide, with more than 10 million people dying each year from this disease. But many cancers can be cured if detected early and treated effectively. In fact, the overall cancer survival rate has improved significantly since 1991 with the hard work of physicians and researchers, improved testing and screening technology and lifestyle changes by those who are at greatest risk from the disease. Despite these positive trends, many people view cancer as a scary disease and have many misconceptions about the causes, treatments and outcomes for those with cancer. Understanding Cancer provides a fact-based examination of the various types and causes of cancer, treatment options (including emerging approaches such as gene therapy), methods of reducing the risk of being diagnosed with cancer and how to care for loved ones with cancer. Stories of those who are battling cancer, as well as their caregivers, are also featured in order to humanize this disease.

Michael Vey FTG1508

Ninth grade can be brutal, especially if you are an undersized boy dealing with Tourette's syndrome. Add bullies, disingenuous authority figures, a geeky best friend, a loving but financially strapped parent and you have a relatable protagonist who just happens to have an amazing superpower. Michael Vey can zap people with electricity. With his mother's help, he has been able to keep his "mutation" a secret until the eventful day when popular cheerleader, Taylor, witnesses him defending himself against three tormentors. This event sets into action a chain of discoveries, deceit and destruction that brings together an unlikely group of young people who must work together to save themselves and others.

"Highly recommended. Michael Vey is thrilling storytelling full of twists, action, intrigue, and outstanding characters. I wouldn't be surprised if Michael Vey sweeps the world." —James Dashner, New York Times bestselling author of the Maze Runner series

Five kids with superpowers. One adventure like no other.

Fifteen years ago, eight supernatural criminals fled Estero City to make a new life in an isolated tropical hideout. Over time, seven of them disappeared without a trace, presumed captured or killed. And now, the remaining one has died.

One map changes everything!

The five have lived their entire lives in isolation. What would it mean to follow the map to a strange world full of things they've only heard about, like cell phones, cars and electricity? A world where, thanks to their parents, being supernatural is a crime?

New Series! Cannabis Today MAS1455

In the past decade, the use of cannabis has been legalized or decriminalized in some countries and US states as a result of changing perceptions regarding recreational cannabis and discoveries that have identified the mental and physical health benefits of the drug. In fact, more than 40 states have legalized medical marijuana in some form and recreational marijuana use is legal throughout Canada and in more than 20 US states; Washington, DC; and Guam. In other places, possession and use of cannabis is still a serious crime. Cannabis Today provides a fact-based examination of the issues associated with marijuana. The series will help students obtain a deeper understanding of cannabis—including its chemical components, production and distribution methods, the ever-growing range of cannabis-based products and the wide range of opinions regarding both recreational and medical use. It also examines the negative physical and mental effects of cannabis abuse or misuse and treatment options for those who have become dependent on the drug.

New Series! Sports & STEAM MAS1461

Whether it's a high school or college team, an individual athlete pursuing their career best or a professional sports team competing for a championship, sports captivate people of all ages. But many don't stop to think about the roles that STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Math) plays in the sporting world. Engineers, scientists, technicians, inventors and other STEM professionals design and build stadiums, wearable technology, protective gear and other things. Others collect and analyze massive amounts of data—to help individual athletes and teams obtain a competitive edge and improve the fan experience. The arts are deeply integrated into the world of sports as tools and as a source of creative inspiration for STEAM professionals, as well as forms of expression by sports artists. Each volume in the Sports & STEAM series spotlights a different STEAM field and details how it plays a major role in the sports world. Discussions of emerging technologies—such as artificial intelligence, augmented and virtual reality, the Internet of Things, 3D printing and advanced robotics—demonstrate how these technologies are being used to help athletes and teams, as well as help fans to better enjoy the game.

New Series! Understanding Cancer MAS1463

Cancer is a leading cause of death worldwide, with more than 10 million people dying each year from this disease. But many cancers can be cured if detected early and treated effectively. In fact, the overall cancer survival rate has improved significantly since 1991 with the hard work of physicians and researchers, improved testing and screening technology and lifestyle changes by those who are at greatest risk from the disease. Despite these positive trends, many people view cancer as a scary disease and have many misconceptions about the causes, treatments and outcomes for those with cancer. Understanding Cancer provides a fact-based examination of the various types and causes of cancer, treatment options (including emerging approaches such as gene therapy), methods of reducing the risk of being diagnosed with cancer and how to care for loved ones with cancer. Stories of those who are battling cancer, as well as their caregivers, are also featured in order to humanize this disease.
